"1830. O: the first day of April next for value received, I promise to pay Milton Sheldon or bearer, Eighteen dollars and Filip cents with Interest. Ten dollars of it to be paid in good kitchen Chairs at Fifty cents a piece, well done off, painted and bottomed according to the usual mode of doing off such

"BRIGHAM YOUNG."

"Mendon, March 19th 1830." A gentleman, the administrator of the estate of Milton Sheldon, mentioned in the body of the above note, has kindly presented us the original of which it is a copy, with the veritable eignature, in a decent, legible round hand, of Brigham Young, the apostle of Mormondom, attached. We are informed also that Brigham was a cunning manufacturer of old fashioned spinning wheels, while a brace of endorsments on the back of the note reveal that he had other occupations.

and was pretty much a Jack-of-all-Trades. Thus we find two endorsements, both bearing date June 25th 1830, just at a lazy time of the year when farmers do their putting things to rights, as follows:—
"June 26th 1850. Received on the within

Fourteen dollars and twenty-five cents in making picket fence." "Received on the within two dollars and eighty cents in framing A. Park's barn.' The latter was evidently what is called a "turn," and indicates that Brigham, like Joseph of old, was a carpenter as well as a chair-bottom and spinning-wheel maker. In fact his operations were very numerous, but he was best at a camp-meeting where no lack of industry could be charged upon him. In singing hymns and exhorting he was energetic enough to make up for all other deficiencies. The gentleman to whom we are indebted for this note tells us that he went once to Brigham's house to dun him. It was a cold, raw, autumnal day. Swinging on the gate he found a red-headed "young one," bright-eyed and healthy. Going into the house he found Mrs. Young with one of those peculiar, rusty old black shawls wrapped around her, cow ering over a few coals upon the hearth. He stated his errand, but was so touched with sympathy at Mrs. Young's reply, that he went Sarepta Hall, away determined to make no further effort in the case. Said Mrs. Young, "Mr. A., this little pile of coals is all the wood I have in the house. I have not a pint of meal or flour, and Brigham has left me so for four or five days to go to quarterly meeting. Idou't suppose he will ever pay the note."

Such was Brigham Young, in Anno Domini, 1830 - Buffalo Commercial.
